ALCOHOL

Let's drink to your health by Nick Heather & Ian Robertson (Islington)

Designed to help people who want to cut down on their drinking, this book offers the facts about alcohol, useful advice to enable the reader to change drinking patterns, a drink diary and tips for drinking less.

Overcoming Problem Drinking by Marcantonio Spada (Camden)

Former alcohol counsellor, Marcantonio Spada provides strategies for dealing with excessive drinking based on cognitive behavioral therapy (CBT). CBT can help people develop skills to better manage their behaviour in situations where they drink heavily - for example in social situations, when stressed, or when facing problems and anxieties. CBT also helps people manage cravings for alcohol. The book contains a clear characterisation of problem drinking and an explanation of what causes it. It focuses on exercises and practical strategies which the reader is encouraged to do and apply. Particular emphasis is placed upon the relationship between negative emotions and problem drinking.

ANGER

Overcoming Anger and Irritability by Dr William Davies (Camden and Islington)

A self-help manual for those who find that they are spoiling the lives of both themselves and those around them with their almost constant irritability or flashes of bad temper. Includes an introduction to the origin and nature of anger and irritability and a complete self-help programme with monitoring sheets.

Managing Anger by Gael Lindenfield (Camden and Islington)

This self-help book explains the effects of anger on our bodies and minds and offers strategies for preventing the build-up of frustration, how to deal assertively with problems of buried and misdirected anger and how to keep calm when faced with outbursts.

The Compassionate Mind by Paul Gilbert (Islington)

In this ground-breaking new book Professor Gilbert explores how our minds have developed to be highly sensitive and quick to react to perceived threats and how this fast-acting threat-response system can be a source of anxiety, depression and aggression. He describes how studies have also shown that developing kindness and compassion for self and others can help in calming down the threat system: as a mother's care and love can soothe a baby's distress, so we can learn how to soothe ourselves. This book takes readers through basic mind training exercises to enhance the capacity for, and use of, compassion.

ANXIETY

Overcoming Anxiety by Helen Kennerley (Camden and Islington)

A whole range of anxieties and fears are explained, from panic attacks and phobias to 'burn out'. It is an indispensable guide for those affected, their friends and families. It includes an introduction to the nature of anxiety and stress and a complete self-help programme with monitoring sheets.

Overcoming Anxiety, Stress and Panic by Chris Williams (Camden and Islington)

Uses the proven and trusted five areas model of Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT) to help people experiencing a range of symptoms associated with these conditions. workbooks are included on: obsessive compulsive disorder (OCD), using medication, and planning for the future.

Feel the Fear and do it Anyway by Susan Jeffers (Islington)

Internationally renowned author, Susan Jeffers, has helped millions of people around the globe to overcome their fears and heal the pain in their lives. Such fears may include: Public speaking; Asserting yourself; Making decisions; Intimacy; Changing jobs; Being alone; Ageing; Driving; Losing a loved one; Ending a relationship. This book will give you the insight and tools to vastly improve your ability to handle any given situation. You will learn to live your life the way you want - so you can move from a place of pain, paralysis and depression to one of power, energy and enthusiasm.

How to stop Worrying by Frank Tallis (Islington)

A guide to making worry work for you, helping you to avoid stress and anxiety. The author sets out to teach how to understand fear and face the possibilities of life calmly. He explains what worry is both in terms of it's purpose and the role it plays in stress and anxiety. Approaches to develop a problem-solving package and put this into action are covered along with strategies to cope with setbacks. Simply written, hypothetical situations are used throughout to illustrate the points made.

BEREAVEMENT

Living with Grief (Overcoming Common Problems) by Tony Lake (Camden and Islington)

This guide focuses on grief after bereavement and describes tasks to be worked through in order to come to terms with this. The tasks involve accepting the full reality of what has happened, accepting the need for an increased commitment to life, accepting the need for help, resisting isolation and resisting dependence. Specific help is also included for those suffering from grief after sudden loss, suicide, or the death of a child or a parent. The book also offers help for those who know they are dying.

How to Survive Bereavement by Andrea Kon (Camden)

A practical and supportive guide by an author who has personal experience of a sudden bereavement. Andrea Kon lost her mother and her husband in the space of a few hours and had to cope with a double bereavement. Her book bears witness to her long and difficult struggle to come through and her courage and insight which she now passes on to others in this inspiring book. How to Survive Bereavement aims to show you that there is life after death and that bereavement is a journey we must all make from pain to peace.

Overcoming Grief by Sue Morris (Camden)

It is aimed at people suffering a recent bereavement, guiding them through this painful process. Topics covered include: Dealing with expected or unexpected death, challenging unhelpful thoughts, establishing a routine and tackling avoidance practical aspects such as funerals, birthdays, etc.

CHRONIC FATIGUE

Overcoming Chronic Fatigue by Mary Burgess & Trudie Chalder (Camden and Islington)

Overcoming Chronic Fatigue shows readers how to improve their sleep patterns; provides practical strategies for balancing activity and rest; helps deal with blocks to recovery; reveals how worry and stress can contribute to fatigue; and offers advice on how partners, relatives and friends can help. The techniques described in the book have been tested with a wide range of patients and have been found to reduce symptoms and lessen disability in two-thirds of sufferers.

Chronic Fatigue Syndrome by Frankie Campling and Michael Sharpe. (Islington)

Chronic fatigue syndrome (CFS) remains one of the most controversial illnesses, both in terms of its causes, and the best ways to treat the illness. For years, sufferers have had to deal with scepticism from their families, employers, and even health care professionals. The vast amount of conflicting advice that has been published up to now has served only to confuse sufferers, and professionals, even more. Chronic Fatigue Syndrome: The Facts presents a compassionate guide to this illness, providing sufferers and their families, with practical advice, based solely on scientific evidence. It is unique in being written by both a sufferer and a physician, both of whom have had extensive experience of talking to, and helping, patients. Included in the book is a detailed guide to self-help, written from a patient's perspective, but evidence-based. The book also deals with a number of special issues, advising on how to choose therapies and therapists, and how to deal with CFS in children.

DEPRESSION

Overcoming Depression by Professor Paul Gilbert (Camden and Islington)

A self-help manual full of step-by-step suggestions, case examples and practical ideas for gaining control over depression and low mood. This is an indispensable guide for those affected, their families and friends. It explains the many forms of depression and causes of depression and contains a complete self-help programme and monitoring sheets.

Overcoming Depression by Professor Christopher Williams (Islington)

With reading ages between 11 and 14, each workbook has been designed to offer essential jargon-free information and provides a carefully sequenced series of questions designed to bring about change in how the person thinks and what they do in order to improve how they feel.

Mind Over Mood by Dennis Greenberger & Christine Padesky (Camden and Islington)

Follows cognitive principles to help readers improve their moods, alter their behaviour, and enhance their relationships. Illustrated with major case examples, the book presents in step-by-step fashion the skills for identifying problems, setting goals, and achieving the desired changes. Accessibly written, it also helps therapists augment their sessions by providing clients with instructions and exercises that will reinforce the skills critical to maximizing therapy effectiveness.

Overcoming Depression One Step at a Time by Christopher Martell & Michael E Addis (Islington)

The straightforward, step-by-step format of this workbook brings you this new therapy for the first time. Its engaging exercises make it easy for you to focus on activities that will inspire you with feelings of pleasure, mastery, and engagement. Learn to develop a list of enjoyable activities, or activities you need to engage in as a part of a normal and satisfying life. Begin with the easiest (or sometimes most indispensable) activities on your the list, and learn how to tackle them one by one. This simple, profound process will connect you with naturally occurring rewards, which are powerful antidotes to feelings of depression. With this foundation, go on to change how you approach your day-to-day life, your daily activities, the choices you make, and the way you cope with life's ups and downs. You'll find this proven-effective approach to coping with depression easy to master.

I Had a Black Dog by Matthew Johnstone (Camden)

Since Winston Churchill coined the phrase Black Dog to describe his own struggle with depression, the term has been a popular metaphor for the affliction. Clinical Depression affects one in four women and one in six men during their lifetime. It affected author Matthew Johnstone and inspired him to write a book about it. He uses large, cartoon style illustrations and limited text to explore the effects of depression and the ways it can be overcome. It aims to help sufferers recognise their depression, that they are not to blame and that they are not alone.

EATING DISORDERS

Overcoming Anorexia Nervosa by Dr Christopher Freeman (Camden and Islington)

This is the first self-help book based on cognitive behavioural therapy to counter this most notorious and widespread of eating disorders. Overcoming Body Image Problems— by David Veale, Rob Wilson & Alex Clarke (Islington)

Few of us are happy with our bodies, but three in every hundred people have a body image problem. Our body image problems can arise from eating disorders, dissatisfaction with weight or shape and difficulty dealing with disfigurement. The authors of this new guide are highly experienced in treating body dysmorphic disorder and have put together a clear step by step self help course, based on Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT) that will enable you to work through and take control of your life again.

Overcoming Weight Problems – by Jeremy Gauntlett-Gilber & Clare Grace (Islington)

A clinically tested and comprehensive course in an easily readable form that may offer a solution for people with weight problems ... As a stand-alone self-help guide, it is full of good common sense, encourages the change of eating habits and discourages the concepts of quick fix yoyo dieting ... We have had the Atkins Diet, the South Beach Diet, the Cabbage Diet and many more. Perhaps we are seeing the start of getting it right without fads or deprivation in the application of CBT principles to weight loss.

Getting Better Bit(e) by Bit(e) by Ulrike Schmidt and Janet Treasure (Camden and Islington)

Easy to read and illustrated with many real-life examples, this book addresses the specific problems faced on a daily basis by bulimia sufferers. It provides detailed step-by-step advice for dealing with this condition and concentrates on the key behaviour changes necessary for the sufferer to achieve a happier and more fulfilled life.

Overcoming Bulimia Nervosa and Binge Eating by Prof Peter Cooper (Camden and Islington)

As many as one in 20 women in the western world suffer bouts of uncontrolled binge-eating. Going without food for long periods, making yourself vomit and taking laxatives you don't need are also common and are symptoms of bulimia nervosa. Such illness costs lives if not successfully treated. Now in its second edition, Peter Cooper's sympathetic and highly acclaimed guide gives a clear explanation of the disorder and the serious health issues that can result from it. He describes the treatments available today and, most importantly, sets out a self-help guide for those who want to tackle their difficulties for themselves, with a step-by-step programme.

GAMBLING

Overcoming Compulsive Gambling by Professor Alex Blaszczynski (Camden)

An invaluable guide for those to whom gambling is not just a 'flutter' but a compulsion adversely affecting every aspect of life, their families and friends. It talks about how phobias develop and what keeps them going; setting goals and starting to face your fears; and, avoiding relapses and problem solving.

Overcoming Agoraphobia by Melissa Murphy (Camden)

Agoraphobia is a common complication of Anxiety Disorder, twice as common in women than in men, and literally means a fear of open spaces. But the reality for house-bound sufferers is a crippling fear of leaving the safety zone of the home in case a panic attack occurs. Agoraphobics are by definition isolated from the help they so desperately need, and friends and family are not always sympathetic. 'Overcoming Agoraphobia' aims to help agoraphobics redefine their safety zone, so that no matter where they are, they retain a sense of safety and calm. It covers the latest medical research and treatments, as well as practical issues such as work benefits and disability badges.

POST NATAL DEPRESSION/MOTHERHOOD

What Mothers Do: Especially When It Looks Like Nothing by Naomi Stadlen (Camden)

In her perceptive and the most reassuring book Naomi Stadlen, an experienced counsellor, discusses all aspects of mothering and preparing their babies for relating to other people in their later lives. You will find out why nobody understands what you do all day, why you are overwhelmed by your feelings for your baby, why you are tired all the time, why nothing prepared you for motherhood, why you are so uncertain about what your baby seems to want and why you are short-tempered with your partner.

Surviving Post-Natal Depression At Home, No One Hears You Scream by Cara Aiken (Camden)

This book will help the one in ten mothers experiencing post-natal depression, and the professionals who work with them, to understand the illness. The book tells the stories of ten women from very different backgrounds – including the author – who have suffered post-natal depression. Their stories, told honestly and informally, will be a source of strength and hope for other sufferers. The book offers positive suggestions and practical advice, based on personal and professional experience.

Overcoming Postnatal Depression – a Five Areas approach by Dr. Christopher Williams, Dr. Rock Cantwell and Karen Robertson (Islington)

Uses the trusted Five Areas model of Cognitive Behaviour Therapy (CBT), helping people experiencing postnatal depression to change how they feel. The Five Areas model helps the reader make key changes using a clear, pragmatic and accessible style, by examining five important aspects of our lives: life situation; relationships, resources and problems; altered thinking; altered feelings or moods; altered physical symptoms or sensations; and altered behaviour or activity levels.

PTSD/TRAUMA

Overcoming Traumatic Stress by Claudia Herbert and Ann Wetmore (Camden and Islington)

Terrible events are hard to deal with. Those who go through a catastrophic experience often feel permanently changed by the impact of what has happened. Traumatic stress responses are psychological conditions that result from a person's coping resources having been completely overwhelmed by a terrible experience. Flashbacks can be so severe that sufferers may feel that they are losing their sanity and subsequently become ever more isolated in their distress. This book demonstrates, with practical advice and tested exercises, how to find new and effective ways of coping with and finally overcoming traumatic stress.

RELATIONSHIPS

The Relate Guide to Better Relationships by Sarah Litvinoff (Camden and Islington)

The Feeling Good Handbook by David Burns (Camden and Islington)

Free yourself from fears, phobias and panic attacks. Overcome self-defeating attitudes. Discover the five secrets of intimate communication. Put an end to marital conflict. Conquer your procrastination and unleash your potential for success. In 'Feeling Good: The New Mood Therapy' Dr David Burns introduced a ground-breaking, drug-free treatment for depression that has helped millions of people around the world. Now, in this long-awaited sequel, he reveals powerful new techniques and provides practical exercises that will help you cope with problems and learn how to make life a happier, more exhilarating experience.

SELF-HELP

Manage Your Mind: the mental fitness guide by Gillian Butler & Tony Hope (Islington)

Just as simple measures - regular exercise, a sensible diet - keep your body fit, there are attitudes and skills you can develop to build a healthy mind. In this book two leaders in their fields, one a psychiatrist and one a psychologist, set out strategies that will stretch, strengthen, and tune your mind, to help you cope with the rigours of everyday life. The mind is a powerful tool, but without the right training, your moods, thoughts, and behaviour can sabotage your goals and cause depression and anxiety. Manage your Mind shows you how to keep mentally fit - how to tap into your mind's power - so you can enjoy your life to the fullest.

SEXUAL ABUSE (ADULT SURVIVORS)

Overcoming Childhood Trauma by Dr Helen Kennerley (Islington)

This is an invaluable guide for those who have suffered abuse in childhood and who now struggle with the legacy of this. Abuse in childhood can be the source of enduring difficulties for many, whether the abuse was emotional, physical or sexual. This book will help the sufferer understand the links between past trauma and present difficulties and offers ways to gain control over these problems, allowing the reader to deal with intrusive memories, manage mood swings and build better relationships into adulthood.

SLEEP

Overcoming Sleep Problems by Colin Espie (Camden and Islington)

Extensive research conducted over 25 years has established Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT) as the treatment of choice for insomnia. For the first time, proven CBT principles have been brought together by a practising clinician in a comprehensive self-help manual. In a clear step-by-step approach, new patterns of relaxation, sleeping and waking are quickly learnt.

SOCIAL ANXIETY/SOCIAL PHOBIA

Overcoming Social Anxiety and Shyness by Gillian Butler (Camden and Islington)

This self-help manual explains why this common problem happens and sets out practical methods of resolving it. Full of real-life examples and written for those who suffer from all degrees of social anxiety and shyness, it contains a complete self-help programme and work sheets and is based on clinically proven cognitive behavioural therapy techniques.

Overcoming Paranoid and Suspicious Thoughts by Melanie Fennell (Islington)

Do you feel that others are out to get you? Research shows that paranoia, or the mistrust of other people, is on the increase and that 20-30 per cent of people in the UK frequently have paranoid or suspicious thoughts. This self help guide uses Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT) techniques for the treatment of paranoid thinking. It includes case studies and practical exercises and diary sheets.

STRESS

Managing stress teach yourself by Terry Looker & Olga Gregson (Islington)

This practical guide to stress management advises on assessing and identifying stress and developing a personal stress management plan. Packed with good, easy to understand advice, this begins with a clear explanation of the nature, origins and consequences of stress. Advice is given on relaxation and the ways of adjusting to the demands of daily life. The book contains a comprehensive self-treatment programme designed to enable readers to manage pressures and demands more effectively. A stress management planner is included in the book to allow the reader to develop a personally tailored programme.

Everything You Need To Know About Stress by Eve Adamson (Camden)

This book explains what stress is and the impact it has, before offering a personal programme for dealing with stress permanently. Mental, physical and spiritual well-being are constantly monitored as the reader learns to identify stress and deal with it. From physical exercise and diet to alternative therapies and building self-esteem this book offers a wide range of approaches to manage stress.

Deal with Stress: How to take control of your work by Bloomsbury Reference Press (Camden)

Offers practical solutions and advice on combating stress and reaching a good work-life balance. Deal with stress contains a quiz to assess strengths and weaknesses, step-by-step guidance and action points, top tips to bear in mind for the future, common mistakes and advice on how to avoid them, summaries of key points, and lists the best sources of further help.

The Happiness Trap – A revolutionary mindfulness- based program for overcoming stress, anxiety and depression by Russ Harris (Islington)

Do you ever feel worried, miserable or unfulfilled? You are not alone. This book explores the “happiness trap” a vicious cycle in which the more we strive for happiness, the more it eludes us. The book uses the six principles from acceptance and commitment therapy (ACT) and mindfulness skills. Russ Harris helps readers to reduce stress, rise above fears and insecurities and create richer and more meaningful lives.

WORRY

How to Stop Worrying by Frank Tallis (Camden and Islington)

This book explains what worry is both in terms of its purpose and the role it plays in stress and anxiety. Approaches to develop a problem-solving package and put this into action are covered, along with strategies to cope with setbacks. Simply written, hypothetical situations are used throughout to illustrate the points made.

Overcoming Worry by Kevin Meares and Mark Freeston (Islington)

Using established and proven CBT techniques, expert clinicians Kevin Meares and Mark Freeston help readers to understand that it is their propensity to worry, not the multitude of problems they worry about, that is the root of the problem. The user-friendly, step-by-step approach explains why they worry, how to recognise what feeds it and develop effective methods of dealing with it.

The Worry Cure: stop worrying and start living by Robert L Leahy (Islington)

Do you worry that you'll say the wrong thing, wear the wrong outfit, or look out of place? Or maybe that you'll make a mistake at work, disappoint your partner, or overlook a serious health problem? Worry is a central issue in many people's lives; 38% of people say they worry every day. Dr Robert Leahy offers new insight, advice and practical techniques for everyone who has ever had a sleepless night. Using the most recent research and his 25 years of experience treating patients,
